We first came across Dave Whitlam's designs a couple of years ago, in a wondrous golf shed full of toys for the golfing geek. We couldn't believe how good this brand was and that we had never heard of it, and that so few Tour players were using the putters. 100 per cent milled from a solid billet of 303 stainless steel, the Whitlam putters feel as soft as butter off the face with ultra-precise feedback on every putt. With the faces milled so perfectly flat, the ball rolls beautifully time after time. Whitlam are starting to generate wider distribution in the UK, so you'll see more of these putters in people's bags, and not hidden away in golf sheds.
